Season of mist and mellow fruitfulness

Any English Literature student will know that this is a line from Keats' poem, Ode to Autumn. I have to confess that I am not a great fan of poetry, unlike some of my colleagues. But this is one poem which has stayed with me.

Autumn is a time when the nights get longer, the weather gets colder and damper, the leaves on the trees start falling, and gardens, and much of nature seems to fall asleep, before the grey months of Winter. It is a time also, when many people start to feel down, and sad. A condition known as Seasonal Affective Disorder is the extreme form of this general feeling. It is a time when a lot of people follow nature and just retreat indoors for most of the season and wait for Spring. But to do this means missing out on a lot of things. I mentioned the greyness of Winter, and I worry sometimes that our world might become just that, grey.

Autumn is far from a grey season. The leaves on the trees, although they are dying, give a fantastic display of colour, from green, to orange, to yellow and to brown. To look upon deciduous woodland at this time, is to discover a world of colour in our lives. In Winter, many shrubs and trees will still have berries on them. The holly tree is just one example, and frequently seen in Christmas displays. So even in the seasons where nature seems to shut down for several months, there is a lot of colour which displays the life underneath.

We too can be in danger of becoming grey, not just in Autumn or Winter, but throughout the seasons, and throughout our lives. As I sit and watch the world go by sometimes, what I see is a world conforming to norms which are set by unknown groups, and seem to be accepted without question. Why should we conform? Why shouldn't we question? Why can't we be individuals, within a society, rather than the same individuals in a society? Where is the flare? Where is the creativity which makes me, me, and you, you.

One of the characteristics of God is that he is The Creator, of the world, and of you and me. God is creative. If you and I are created in his image, then we too are creative, and we should never forget that aspect of ourselves, and our spirituality.

So I believe we should be ourselves, we should be individual, we should show flare and creativity, and by doing this, we should bring colour into the world. I hope that all of us, together, will bring a rainbow of colour into our community, and brighten up not only our own lives, but the lives of the people we meet day by day.

Interregnum Update

It is now over 2 months since Paul Hartley retired, and previously we have written about what we must do during the interregnum. So here is the update of what we have done.

We have written the Parish Brochure, which contains information which describes our Parish, and the many activities that happen. This also contains a list of characteristics that we would expect our next Parish Priest to have. This was compiled after discussions with several parishioners. We have also produced a short video, showing many different pictures of our activities. We have met with the Archdeacon of Pontefract on two occasions, and written a person specification, and a role profile.

All of the above documents have been agreed by PCC, and sent to the Archdeacon for publication. In other words, within eight weeks we have completed all the work we need to do in preparation for finding a new Parish Priest. So a big thank you to our Churchwardens, to the support group, and to PCC for completing this task in such a short space of time, and over the Summer holidays.

The next steps are all Diocesan. The documents we have written will be published as an advert. All applications received will be reviewed by our Parish representatives and the Diocese. Interviews will follow, and hopefully the right candidate will be found.

In the mean time, all church services and activities are continuing as usual. This is possible because of the dedication and commitment of the people in our congregations, so a big thank you to all those people too.

St Paul writes to the Church in Ephesus:

"You are citizens with the saints and also members of the household of God built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets with Christ Jesus himself as the cornerstone. In him the whole structure is joined together and grows into a holy temple in the Lord; in whom you are also built together spiritually into a dwelling place for God."

So it is in Ackworth. The Church in Ackworth is very much alive and active.

All Saints' Fairs

The total monies raised this year from the first five fairs held are £4367. Thanks are due to many people and without singling out individuals you all know who you are. Thank you very much for your continued help, support and commitment which ensures we can continue these events.

We set a target of raising £6000 for this year and with your ongoing help this looks very achievable with two fairs still to go namely :-

Harvest Fair Saturday 7th October

Christmas Fair Saturday 18th November

We still desperately need donations of good quality bric-a-brac along with prizes for the tombola stall. In addition we intend to run the surprise tombola which proved to be so popular last year and would welcome prizes for this in sealed Christmassy bags the contents of which can be anything you feel is suitable. Last year we managed to collect over 160 prizes each one selling for £1 a ticket and it would be brilliant if we could reach a similar figure this year! Prizes can be dropped off at both churches anytime from now or please contact Derek and Caroline Longhurst or Stella and Ian Hall

Once again my thanks go out to you all and we very much look forward to your valued help and support.

Remembrance

Please remember the following brave men who fell in the Great War on the Centenary of their deaths:

GARDENING NEWS

Once again we would like to say an enormous THANK YOU to an enthusiastic and dedicated group of people who worked tirelessly at the beginning of September to improve the churchyard at St Cuthbert's. This included clearing away and shredding all the remaining branches and debris from the last gardening session we had, as well as cutting back lots of ivy and holly which had grown into a wild, tangled mess under the trees. The work took over a week, with people coming and going when they were free to help. Hopefully you can see from the photographs below what a difference they made.

We now have a view from the vestry door all the way down to the wall at the bottom of the churchyard, something which we have not seen for several years!

Many thanks to you all.
